

CURRICULUM VITAE

RIABOUCHINSKY, Dr. Dimitri Pavlovitch, Russian Scientist; born Oct. 31, 1882, Moscow, Russia; son of Paul and Alexandra (Ovsiannikova) Riabouchinsky; educated at Moscow Practical Academy for Commercial Sciences, 1900; Heidelberg University, 1901; Moscow University, 1912; Sorbonne, D.Sc., 1922; married Vera de Zybine, April 26, 1906; three children. Founder and Organiser Aerodynamic Institute, Koutchino, 1904; Director until 1918. Privatdocent Moscow University, 1915-1918; Scientific Collaborator French Air Ministry, 1922-40. Professor of theoretical Mechanics, Russian Superior Technical School in France, since 1930; appointed to Fluid Mechanics Department, Sorbonne, 1924; collaborated in foundation and organisation of Fluid Mechanics Laboratory, University of Paris; Associate Director Laboratory, 1930-1940. Fellow French National Center for Scientific Research, since 1940. Lectured at Sorbonne, 1925 - 1941; lectured on fluid mechanics in Denmark, Poland, England, Yugoslavia, U.S.A., etc. Founder and President, Russian Society of Philosophy of Sciences; Founder and President, Association for Defence of Russian Cultural Values. Correspondent, Académie des Sciences, Paris; Fellow, Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, New York; Member, the Royal Institute of Philosophy, London; Member, Société Mathématique de France and Comité National de Mécanique. Awarded Henri Bazin Prize, Académie des Sciences, 1933. Author of over 170 publications on Fluid Mechanics, Physics and Mathematics. Address: Rue Edmond Roger, 10, Paris XV-e, France